

CALL FOR PAPERS
2019 Graduate Conference in Political Theory
at Columbia University in the City of New York

1st Annual Conference
November 9, 2019

Keynote speaker
Katrina Forrester (Harvard)

We invite submissions from graduate researchers in political theory or related disciplines to present their work at the conference. The conference will involve the presentation and discussion of the papers of successful applicants.

To submit a paper, please email your name and affiliation alongside the paper to columbiagradpt@gmail.com by 11:59 PM Eastern Time on August 4, 2019. Papers should be no more than 8000 words (with citations but without references) and should contain no identifying information. We welcome submissions from all topics in political theory.

As a graduate conference, please note that we can only consider papers from applicants currently enrolled in a graduate degree program. The papers will be reviewed by Columbia graduate students in political theory and successful candidates will be informed beginning of September. If you wish to be considered for one of a limited number of travel stipends to attend the conference, please indicate that with your submission.

We particularly welcome applications from groups that are currently under-represented in political theory.
